Dear Parents,

Thank you for trusting us with your child's dance education. The year is off to a great start and our faculty is already seeing a lot of growth in weekly classes. The first fifteen minutes of class are the most important, this is where dancers warm up their bodies and focus their minds. Arriving late and missing this important stage of the class greatly hinders dancer improvement. Students are also now bonding in their classes and working on skills critical to their success throughout the rest of the dance season. Help your dancer reach his/her maximum potential this year - arrive on time and be consistent with attendance! Attire is also an important part of class. If you're unsure what your dancer should wear to class take a look at our online store. We've stocked it with suggested shoes, leotards, and tights for all our classes. Click here to access the store. Our passphrase is TPDA2017. Together, we can ensure your dancer has a terrific year at TPDA!

Class Attendance: What happens if my dancer misses?

If you know in advance your dancer will miss class, please let us know. We understand unforeseen circumstances pop up last minute. However, if possible, please let us know your dancer will be absent.

Students are encouraged to make up classes missed because of illness/injury. They may make up in a class of the same style and comparable level. Make ups are not allowed in classes that are currently full and must be approved in advance by TPDA faculty. Refunds are not given for missed classes.

Costume Measuring Starting Soon

The Spring Performance seems a long way off but it's already on our minds. We will begin measuring dancers for their costumes soon. Please make sure your dancer is in class so they can be measured!
